

A Holiday romance and an affair.

I had a great time in the states and had an holiday romance and then affair – something I have never done before and hopefully will never do again.

I met this really beautiful Dolphin called L.B. We started off by shaking hands, as she was with her friend called Dingy.

We then decided to take the relationship to the next stage and we started kissing. I felt so embarrassed as I don't normally get involved so quickly. But then again I only had 30 minutes 😊

The kiss was magical. I felt great. She was so smooth and gentle. Wow!

However she had a bit of a foot fetish, which was different. Not something I normally would go for in a relationship.

However, we got on really well and had a good laugh, as the photo below shows ☺

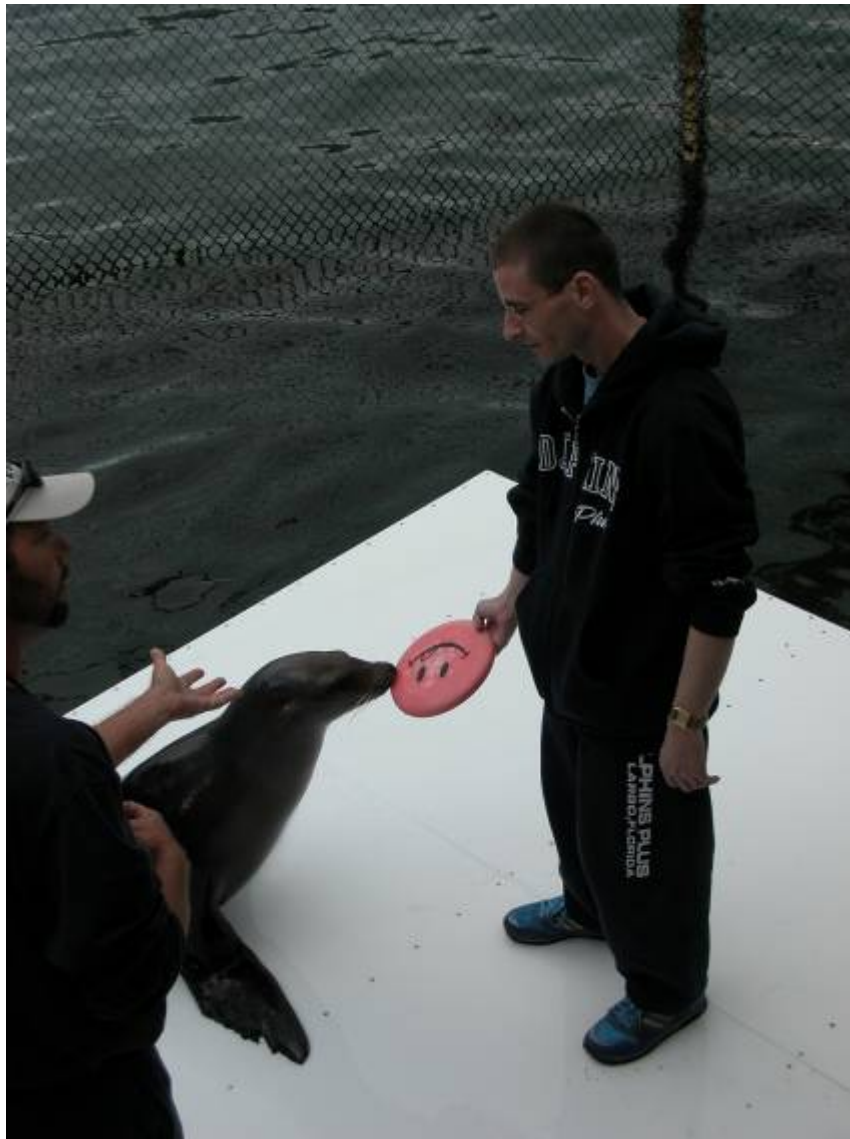

The only bad thing about this holiday romance was that she always wanted to take the lead and drag me along with her.

We then unfortunately parted company after the shortest relationship of my life.

I then had a bit of an identity crisis and was starting to get confused about my sexuality and who I was. Has later the same day I was introduced to a Sealion and was very confused.

Didn't know what I should do and was a little bit reserved. She give me a kiss and I was quite flattered.

I decided not to take the relationship any further because I didn't like her bark and she had big beady eyes.

The next day though, I had two Dolphins interested in me – which was very surprising. I am a one Dolphin kind of guy and one of the Dolphins I had to keep pushing away.

In the end – I gave up and decided that I was on holiday and so let my values go out of the window and

We and then had a big argument. She got really jealous and she went off in a tiff ☹️

I then got fed up and started to ignore her when she tried to make things up – after she realised that she couldn't live without me 😊

I don't like arguments and we started to talk about the problem. I offered her some free counselling about her issues.

However, it was agreed that I shouldn't be kissing two Dolphins at the same time and that it wasn't very fair. So it was agreed that I would tell them both where they stood.

We then shook hands and we all was friends again, which I was very pleased about 😊

I then gave them a kiss goodbye (1 at a time this time)

And then they took me to shore.

And saw me off

Michael Dolphin
15th January 05